

Dimension⁵ announces D5 Scholarships winners!

Melbourne, Australia – Thursday 25th August, 2016

Dimension⁵, a joint initiative of Creative Universe and Dimension Data to promote entrepreneurship and innovation, is pleased to announce the winners of its recent scholarship contest for young and emerging social enterprises. From a large field of excellent applicants, four entrepreneurs have been granted a year's membership and benefits.

The winners are:

Concrete Exodus: Joel de Ross www.concreteexodus.com

'Conservation through habitation'.

Concrete Exodus aims to help indigenous people of Borneo reconnect with their ancestral land through a re imagined village, all planned and coordinated remotely using Virtual Reality.

Scriptwise: Bee Ismail www.scriptwise.org.au

ScriptWise aims to provide national leadership around the issue of prescription medication misuse and overdose, build and facilitate partnerships with key stakeholders in changing behaviours and attitudes to prevent prescription medication misuse, addiction and overdose in Australia.

ScriptWise aims to reduce the number of medication errors and overdose fatalities through prevention and education in the next three to five years.

I-Nspire: George Wilson www.i-nspire.com.au

I-Nspire strives to provide the forum, tools and inspiration for all individuals to unite in a collective bid to solve the social, economic and health related issues of the current and emerging world. Through online crowd funding, public interaction and educative media, I-Nspire empowers others to take an active involvement in our philanthropic movement as we commit to, and act upon, innovative projects that drive our revolutionary campaign for positive change.

Purposeful: Mike Davis www.purposeful.net.au

Purposeful is a 'social impact advisory', created with the purpose of empowering business to solve social, health and environmental problems through social impact strategy and planning. Purposeful works with business and interested organisations to identify shared value opportunities to partner with and fund the not-for-profit and social enterprise sector organisations and initiatives that deliver strong social impact and value.

We also look forward to announcing other Scholarship winners soon, including the UTS MBAe Social Innovation Scholarship due to be awarded in early 2017.
